Dear Hiring Manager,

Airalo took the friction out of staying connected abroad, and doing that across 200+ countries with a fully remote team means the marketing engine has to be exceptionally well-run behind the scenes — which is exactly the kind of work I love. The Marketing Manager, Arabia & Africa role reads like my current day-to-day: turning multi-market performance data into clear reporting, coordinating launches across teams, and keeping every initiative moving to completion. Arabia & Africa is also precisely the map I already work: at DoFreeze I run marketing across 50+ countries including the GCC, MENA and Africa.

As Brand & Marketing Manager at DoFreeze, I keep the regional engine running: I pull performance data by channel, market and period (spend, revenue, ROI/ROAS, conversion, GMV), maintain the trackers and dashboards, and turn them into KPI reporting, trends and recommendations for leadership. I coordinate campaigns and launches end-to-end across content, creative, influencer, PR, performance and product — managing timelines, asset requirements, approvals and follow-ups, and chasing down blockers before go-live. Earlier, at Alibaba's Miravia, I analysed ROI, ROAS, conversion and retention across 42 accounts to grow GMV +30% QoQ, and at Mondelez I owned the chocolate category's sell-in/sell-out reporting and monthly performance reviews — so translating data into decisions, and building clean, reliable trackers, is genuinely how I work.

A few things I'd bring beyond the checklist: I'm proactive and detail-obsessed — I don't wait to be chased, and I keep owners, next steps and deadlines visible so nothing loses momentum. I'm an early adopter of generative AI (Claude/GPT) and have built automation that cuts reporting and planning workload ~40%, which pays off in a fast-moving, multi-market setup. I'm fluent in the tool set you mention — Google Sheets, Excel, Looker and Notion (my whole workflow lives in it). In the spirit of your transparency: I'm not an Arabic speaker (Spanish native, English C1), though I've worked across MENA and GCC markets throughout my career and it hasn't slowed me down. I'm already based in the UAE and set up to work fully remotely.

I'd welcome the chance to show how I'd keep the Arabia & Africa marketing engine running — from the weekly and monthly performance reporting through cross-functional launch coordination to the operational follow-through that keeps initiatives on track. I'm available to start quickly and set up for remote work in the UAE. Thank you for considering my application — I'd be glad to walk through how I'd approach the first 90 days across the region.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez
