Dear Hiring Manager,

Z Gallerie entering the GCC through a Dubai DTC site needs someone who can turn a China-built premium home brand into a store and a calendar that feel native to the local shopper — and who can work fluidly with your China HQ to get there. I'm a Dubai-based brand and e-commerce marketer who localizes brands for the GCC market every day: I run DTC stores end-to-end, optimise the user journey and conversion, and build region-specific calendars around the moments that actually move sales here. I'll be candid up front about where I fit and where I'd lean on others — because I'd rather be a real fit than a keyword match.

On the commercial and localization half of this role I'm strong. At DoFreeze I run Shopify DTC end-to-end — auditing user journeys, product display and conversion (CRO) from a local-consumer lens — and adapt brand communications, visuals and campaigns to GCC consumers and the region's religious and commercial calendar (Ramadan, Eid, DSF, White Friday), synchronising launches with a global product cadence 3–6 months ahead. I know the GCC e-commerce ecosystem first-hand (quick-commerce, payments, logistics), plan multi-channel campaigns across social, YouTube, search and influencer, and I built a membership/loyalty programme ('Beauty Club') and social content engine ('Hot on Social') at Alibaba's Miravia. I also produce competitor and market-intelligence reporting for leadership — exactly the monthly ME insight reports this role owes China HQ.

Two honest notes so you can calibrate the fit. First, I am not a native Arabic speaker — I'm Spanish (native) with English at C1 — so for Arabic-language copy, religious-compliance sign-off and the deepest cultural-training work I'd partner with native-Arabic colleagues, creators and agencies, as I already coordinate Arabic-facing content in-market; where I add the most is the commercial, DTC-localization and China-collaboration side. And that China side is a genuine edge: I've worked inside Alibaba's organisation (Miravia), so bridging with your China HQ teams — UI/UX, Product, Operations — is familiar terrain. Second, my sector is e-commerce, beauty and fashion rather than home/furniture, but I trained in premium lifestyle retail at Inditex (Massimo Dutti) and have launched new brands 0-to-1 on-platform, so premium-lifestyle merchandising and retail localization are comfortable ground.

If you're looking for the commercial, DTC-localization and China-bridge engine of your GCC launch — paired with native-Arabic cultural expertise on the team — I'd bring hands-on GCC e-commerce, market-calendar and localization experience and an AI-powered way of scaling content and insight. I'm based in Dubai and happy to share e-commerce and localization case studies. Thank you for your consideration — I look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez
