Dear Hiring Manager,

Rayfitout's brief — a marketer who can think beyond standard methods and invent original ways to generate qualified leads and strengthen the brand — is exactly the kind of hands-on, creative-plus-analytical role I look for, so the Growth Marketing Manager position caught my eye. Running Google and Meta Ads, owning Instagram end-to-end, developing original content ideas and turning all of it into high-value client leads is genuinely my day-to-day, and I'm already based in Dubai and ready to work on-site.

As Brand & Marketing Manager at DoFreeze I set up and optimise Google Ads and Meta Ads (Facebook & Instagram) — audiences, creative A/B tests, budgets and bids — and track campaign performance, lead quality, cost per lead and conversions to keep improving ROI and ROAS. I own Instagram strategy end-to-end (content planning, Reels and carousels, posting, growth and engagement), develop original campaign ideas independently, and guide content, design and videography teams to turn those ideas into on-brand assets. I also improve landing pages and store UX for conversion (CRO) and prepare clear performance reports — so the full loop from ad click to qualified lead is what I run every day.

The client-acquisition side fits just as naturally: as a Key Account / Account Manager at Alibaba's Miravia and at Glovo I handled clients directly — qualifying opportunities, negotiating, arranging meetings and following up in the CRM — growing GMV +30% QoQ across 42 accounts and onboarding 30+ new stores in two months. I'll be straightforward that my background is FMCG, beauty, fashion and e-commerce rather than interior design or construction, but the premium/luxury client work at Miravia and Massimo Dutti, plus my performance-marketing and content craft, transfer directly — and I bring generative-AI automation (Claude/GPT) that scales content, campaign planning and reporting, which is genuinely useful for testing unconventional lead-generation ideas fast.

I'd love to show how I'd approach Rayfitout's first 90 days of lead generation — from Google/Meta campaign structures and Instagram content through landing-page conversion to a clean lead-qualification and follow-up flow. I have excellent English (C1), I'm already based in Dubai and available to start quickly, and I'd welcome the chance to share a few original ideas for attracting high-value clients. Thank you for considering my application.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez
