Dear Hiring Manager,

Careem Food's growth agenda is exactly the kind of problem I love — turning market opportunity into a bottom-up plan, then shipping the initiatives that actually move MAUs, orders and revenue. What I'd bring that's rare is genuine food-delivery and quick-commerce DNA: I worked inside Glovo driving GMV for major food accounts, and today I run DoFreeze's growth as a Careem, Talabat and Deliveroo partner — so I already think in this platform's mechanics and market.

The role maps closely onto what I do. I design growth initiatives end-to-end across acquisition, engagement and retention — paid media (Meta & Google Ads) with creative A/B testing, promo and offer mechanics balanced against margin, CRM/EDM lifecycle and Shopify CRO — and I run them as cross-functional programs with clear owners, timelines and post-launch measurement. On revenue accountability, I owned growth for 42 accounts at Miravia (Alibaba) and delivered +30% GMV QoQ through pricing, assortment and targeted promotions, working a weekly plan-vs-actuals rhythm against P&L. At Glovo I coordinated marketing, ops and logistics to launch campaigns and lift order volume in a fast-paced market — the same food-delivery growth dynamics this role lives in.

I'm strongly data-led: I live in dashboards, funnel and retention analysis, and A/B testing, and I track growth by the metrics that matter — GMV, conversion, ROI/ROAS, ARPU and unit economics (Power BI, Tableau, Looker). I'll be candid that my edge is commercial-and-growth rather than deep SQL modelling, but I read data fast, turn it into decisions, and I use an AI-first workflow (Claude/GPT) to move quicker on analysis and reporting. Add that I'm MENA-based with the partner-side view of Careem, and I can be productive from week one.

I'd be genuinely excited to help Careem Food hit its Dubai/UAE growth targets, and I can walk through growth, promotion and retention case studies from Glovo, Miravia and DoFreeze. I'm already based in Dubai and ready to start fast. Thank you for your consideration — I look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez
