

29 August 2026

Dear Hiring Manager,

Airalo turned a genuinely painful travel problem — staying connected abroad — into a product millions reach for by default, and scaling that across 200+ countries is fundamentally a product-marketing challenge: sharp positioning, disciplined launches and messaging that travels across markets and languages. The Senior Manager, Product Marketing role reads like the core of what I do today — I own end-to-end go-to-market for a multi-brand portfolio across 50+ countries (GCC, MENA, Asia, Europe, USA and Africa), the kind of multi-country, global-product remit this role is built around.

At DoFreeze I define positioning and messaging for each brand, segment and market and lead launches from strategy through execution — six NPD launches end-to-end (positioning, packaging, pricing, channel plan) with clear goals and success metrics — partnering cross-functionally with product, growth, CRM and platform partners to drive activation, engagement and retention. I'm also marketplace-native: at Alibaba's Miravia I ran product and category marketing across 42 beauty, fragrance and fashion accounts (B2C shoppers and B2B partners), grew GMV +30% QoQ, owned the Flash Sales channel and presented go-to-market plans directly to the CEO; and at Glovo I helped take a whole new retail vertical to market. Commissioning research and competitive analysis to act as the voice of the customer, and turning behavioral data into positioning and lifecycle decisions, is how I already work.

I'll be transparent, in the spirit of your roaming-free recruitment: I'm earlier in my arc than the eight-year, senior-PMM-leadership bar — I'm a Brand & Marketing Manager, not yet a titled Product Marketing lead. What I bring is that I already do the substance of the role at global scale, I'm marketplace- and consumer-native (a listed plus, in place of direct travel/telecom), I'm data-fluent and an early adopter of generative AI for messaging, research and enablement, and I'm comfortable in a remote-first, globally distributed team. I'd join hungry to shape the PMM function and grow into its leadership fast — and I'm already based in the UAE and set up to work fully remotely.

I'd welcome the chance to show how I'd approach Airalo's product narrative and launch playbook — differentiated positioning by segment, integrated GTM with Growth, CRM and Partnerships, and a lifecycle that turns product value into adoption and retention. Thank you for considering my application — I'd be glad to walk through how I'd spend the first 90 days shaping the PMM function.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez

+971 50 386 3656 | paulich98@hotmail.com