Dear Hiring Manager,

Binance Square is, at its heart, a bridge between creators and their communities — and building that bridge is the work I love and do best. The Creator Partnerships Manager role reads like my day-to-day: identify and recruit creators, own onboarding, and grow a portfolio through engagement and retention. I'm also a native Spanish speaker with C1 English, which I noticed is a listed advantage for coordinating creators across regions.

Creator partnerships is genuinely my strongest muscle. At DoFreeze I built the creator/influencer programme from zero — sourcing and recruiting creators, owning onboarding, briefing, negotiation and ongoing relationship management for a portfolio of 25–50 creators per campaign, including paid collaborations — and I develop engagement and retention strategies while tracking reach, engagement and content performance. Earlier, at Alibaba's Miravia, I created and led the Hot on Social and Beauty Club community programmes (creator/KOL collaborations and community-driven initiatives) and managed a portfolio of 42 partner relationships, growing engagement and GMV +30% QoQ. I'm analytical, self-motivated and used to remote, globally distributed teams.

I'll be upfront, in the interest of a good match: I'm coming into crypto from consumer, creator and marketplace marketing rather than from years inside the Web3 space, so I'd be building my crypto creator network from a strong base rather than an existing one. What I bring is that the core of this role — recruiting, growing and retaining a global creator portfolio and running community programmes — is exactly what I do best, I'm a fast, tech-forward learner (an early adopter of generative AI and new platforms) who's genuinely excited by the creator economy Binance Square is building, and I ramp quickly. I'm already based in Dubai and set up to work fully remotely.

I'd welcome the chance to show how I'd approach the first 90 days — mapping and recruiting high-impact creators, standing up an onboarding and engagement cadence, and building community growth programmes that turn creator collaborations into real community interaction. Thank you for considering my application — I'd love to bring proven creator-partnerships expertise to Binance Square.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez
