Dear Hiring Manager,

I would like to apply for the Brand Specialist role in the AVS team for Amazon Now. Quick commerce is my daily environment: as Brand & Marketing Manager at DoFreeze, a UAE food group, I manage how our brands perform on Careem, talabat and Noon dark stores. Before that I managed brand accounts from the platform side at Alibaba's Miravia and Glovo. This role joins both sides, and that is why it appeals to me.

Your five focus areas are close to my current week. On availability, I run a weekly stock-risk review by dark store, checking whether platform purchase orders cover upcoming demand and chasing gaps with sales and supply before products go out of stock. On traffic and conversion, I plan promotions with the platforms and measure them against a control: a SMASH x talabat campaign lifted daily sales by 165% while a control brand grew 4.7%. On selection, I launched six new products and defined must-stock lists by channel with our e-commerce sales team. At Miravia I was the main contact for 42 brands and grew them 30% GMV quarter on quarter through business plans on pricing, selection and promotions, and ran the Flash Sales channel reporting to the CEO.

I do my analysis in Excel, Power BI and Looker, starting with sell-in and sell-out data at Mondelez. I have not used Amazon Vendor Central or SQL day to day, and I would learn both quickly. I would bring an FMCG and grocery background, the habit of closing the loop without being chased, and a clear view of what a vendor needs when a fulfilment center is short.

I am based in Dubai and would welcome the chance to discuss how I could support your vendors on Amazon Now. Thank you for your consideration.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez
