Dear Hiring Manager,

I would like to apply for the Field Marketing Executive role at PAX. I am a brand and trade marketer based in Dubai, currently Brand & Marketing Manager at DoFreeze, a UAE food group, where I take our brands to market through modern trade and quick-commerce. Hayati's growth in the UAE, built one retailer at a time, is the kind of hands-on marketing I want to do more of.

Most of what this role delivers is already part of my work. I build trade and shopper marketing plans by channel, and I have launched six products from brief to go-to-market. I plan and run offline campaigns around seasonal moments such as Ramadan, Back to School and Fitness Month, with product samplings and activations with running, padel and yoga communities. I coordinate agencies and suppliers and lead a designer and a social media executive, so campaigns land consistently in store and online. And I measure results on sales: our SMASH x talabat campaign lifted daily sales by 165% while a control brand grew 4.7%. Before Dubai I managed 42 brand partners at Alibaba's Miravia and ran partner activations at Glovo, which taught me how to earn a partner's trust and turn it into visibility.

To be transparent: I have not worked in consumer electronics or vaping, and my retail work so far has been with larger chains and platforms rather than daily visits to independent stores. That is the part I would build first: a clear outlet database, a visit plan, and a simple way to track display wins and POSM compliance, so the team can see which stores and placements actually move sales.

I would welcome the chance to discuss how I could grow Hayati's presence at the point of sale across the UAE. Thank you for your consideration.

Best regards,
