Dear Paloma,

I'm applying for the Marketplace Key Account Manager role as Gloria Jeans builds its GCC business out of Dubai and makes third-party marketplaces a core growth lever. Launching a value-fashion brand on Noon, Amazon.ae and Namshi — building awareness and trade before the stores arrive — is exactly the kind of commercial, digital-first challenge I've spent my career on.

On Alibaba's Miravia marketplace I managed 42 key accounts and delivered +30% GMV growth quarter-over-quarter through pricing, assortment and promotions, while owning the Flash Sales channel P&L and reporting directly to the CEO. At Glovo I helped build the Retail vertical from scratch, onboarding fashion brands onto the marketplace; today at DoFreeze I run end-to-end integration across the UAE's quick-commerce platforms. Marketplace onboarding, assortment curation, promotional calendars and margin ownership are my daily work.

Three things set me apart here: hands-on experience across GCC quick-commerce marketplaces — Noon, Talabat, Careem and Deliveroo — which is rare in this market; a fashion-retail foundation trained inside Inditex (Massimo Dutti), aligned with the ex-Inditex e-commerce expertise Gloria Jeans is building in Dubai; and I'm already based here on a UAE residence visa, so there is zero relocation cost or timeline. I'm also AI-first, having built automation that cut planning and reporting time ~40%.

I'd welcome 15 minutes to discuss how I can help launch and scale Gloria Jeans across GCC marketplaces. I'm available immediately and happy to share concrete examples of my marketplace and key-account work. Thank you for your consideration.

Best regards,
