Dear Hiring Manager,

Club L London has done something genuinely hard: turned accessible-luxury womenswear into a brand a global community of trend-setters actually waits on, with fresh collections dropping every week. Running the day-to-day trading behind that cadence — in the GCC, where I already live and work — is exactly the role I want. As an e-commerce and digital-trading marketer based in Dubai, with a career that started on the Inditex (Massimo Dutti) shop floor and runs through fashion e-commerce ever since, the E-commerce Specialist opening reads like it was written around what I do daily.

At DoFreeze I own the D2C Shopify store end-to-end — catalogue, onsite merchandising, search, navigation, collections, promotions and checkout — running weekly trading plans, launches and promotions and lifting conversion (CRO) and average order value through data-led merchandising. Shopify is one of the exact platforms this role names. I also own localisation of content, campaigns and promotions across 50+ GCC/MENA and global markets, and I grow wholesale, distributor and marketplace partners across Noon, talabat, Careem and Deliveroo. Earlier, at Alibaba's Miravia marketplace, I ran the Beauty, Fragrances & Fashion category across 42 accounts and brand/wholesale partners, growing GMV +30% QoQ through weekly promotions and constant conversion, traffic and retention analysis — the trading rhythm this role lives on.

Two things make me a natural fit. First, real fashion depth — Massimo Dutti (Inditex), Miravia's Fashion category, Glovo's fashion Retail vertical and a CUNEF thesis specialised in the Fashion Industry — so the product, the merchandising standards and the trend-led weekly drop are second nature. Second, I am already in Dubai on a UAE residence visa and fluent in the GCC market, so there is no relocation and no ramp-up on the local consumer. In full honesty, I am not an Arabic speaker (I am a native Spanish speaker with C1 English), which I know the role prefers — but I localise the GCC customer experience daily and would partner closely with native Arabic colleagues to keep the Arabic storefront to the standard the brand deserves. I am also AI-native: I built a generative-AI system that cut trading and reporting workload ~40%, meaning sharper, faster trading insights.

I would love to bring this blend of fashion instinct and D2C trading rigour to Club L London's GCC and Australia growth story. I am based in Dubai, available to start immediately, and would welcome the chance to talk through how I would approach your weekly trading calendar and wholesale partners. Thank you for your consideration — I look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez
