Dear Hiring Manager,

Building an acquisition engine where every dirham is tied to a booked, attended appointment — not an impression — is exactly the kind of growth problem I find energising. I run full-funnel performance marketing hands-on: at DoFreeze I own paid media across Meta and Google Ads, optimise a Shopify funnel for conversion, and hold myself to ROI and ROAS rather than reach.

Day to day I plan, launch and optimise campaigns with structured A/B testing across creative, copy, audiences and placements to lower cost per acquisition, and I manage the budget and spend allocation behind them. I built an AI-powered automation system (Claude/GPT) that speeds up campaign planning, creative variations and reporting — useful in a fast, high-expectation environment. At Alibaba's Miravia I analysed ROI, ROAS, conversion and retention across 42 accounts to grow GMV +30% QoQ and reported the commercial story directly to the CEO, so translating campaign data into a leadership-ready narrative is familiar ground.

In fairness, two things sit outside my track record and I'd rather be upfront: I haven't yet formally managed a team, and my acquisition work has been in e-commerce, beauty and FMCG rather than healthcare. What I bring instead is the core growth craft — full-funnel paid media, CAC/ROAS discipline, A/B testing and AI-driven efficiency — a genuinely commercial, unit-economics mindset, and a fast ramp into new categories. I'm based in Dubai on a UAE residence visa and can move quickly.

If you're open to a candidate who is strong on the growth engine and ready to grow into the leadership and healthcare specifics, I'd love to talk through how I'd approach the first quarter of patient acquisition. Thank you for considering my application.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez
