Dear Hiring Manager,

A beauty and lifestyle brand with a global customer base stepping into US retail — turning strategy into launches, campaigns and commercially effective execution across product, retail, e-commerce, social, PR and events — is exactly the operational-engine role I want. I'm a brand marketing and campaign-delivery manager with 4+ years across beauty, fragrances, fashion, FMCG and e-commerce, now leading Brand & Marketing for a multi-market FMCG house in Dubai, and I spend my days doing precisely what this role asks: making broad, fast-moving brand activity land on time, on brand and to a high standard.

Your 'what you'll be doing' list maps closely onto my day job. At DoFreeze I translate brand strategy into launch plans and campaign timelines and own end-to-end coordination of product launches — brief, product storytelling, packaging, pricing and go-to-market — across retail, e-commerce, social, influencer and PR, in 50+ markets. I'm the central coordination point across brand, design, social, retail and e-commerce, running the project plans, launch calendars, trackers, briefs and approvals that keep everything moving, and I coordinate external agencies and vendors, resolving delivery issues fast. My beauty grounding is real: at Alibaba's Miravia I managed 42 beauty, fragrance and fashion accounts (+30% GMV QoQ), onboarded leading fragrance houses, and built the 'Beauty Club' and 'Hot on Social' programmes that made the platform a beauty & lifestyle destination. I've scaled influencer, UGC and gifting/seeding from zero (25–50 creators per campaign), partner daily with e-commerce to strengthen product storytelling and the customer journey, and I compile post-campaign reporting while keeping A&P budgets commercially responsible.

Two things make me a strong fit for a small, flat, fast-moving team. First, disciplined execution at pace: I'm highly organised and accountable, comfortable running multiple launch timelines and stakeholders at once, and I've built AI-powered playbooks, decks and landing pages (Claude / generative AI) that let a lean team deliver like a much bigger one. Second, entrepreneurial ownership — I bring ideas and see them through. I'll be candid on one point: my markets today span GCC, MENA, Europe and Africa with US export exposure, so while I coordinate brand communication to international retail partners, I'd be deepening my US-consumer and US-retail fluency rather than arriving with years of it — something I'm genuinely excited to do as the brand enters that chapter, and I ramp fast.

I'd love to be the operational engine that turns your US-retail moment and everyday brand activity into launches and campaigns that land — combining hands-on beauty and lifestyle experience, end-to-end launch project management and AI-powered ways of scaling a lean team. I'm based in Dubai and available to talk through how I'd approach the first 90 days. Thank you for your consideration — I look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez
