Dear Hiring Manager,

instashop runs on people who can execute paid campaigns and read the data behind them — and do it lean, with AI baked into the workflow. That is exactly how I work. I'm a performance-minded marketer who plans and optimises paid media on Meta and Google Ads, and my rare edge is being genuinely AI-first: I built a generative-AI system (Claude/GPT) that automates my reporting, analysis, brief writing and campaign planning. Just as relevant, I know q-commerce from the inside — I integrate and grow brands on Talabat, Noon, Careem and Deliveroo today, so I understand instashop's marketplace and customer-acquisition context from the operator's seat before day one.

The role maps closely onto what I do. On the execution side I own campaign setup, audience building, creative A/B testing, budget allocation and bid/pacing on Meta (Facebook & Instagram) and Google Ads, optimising against ROI and ROAS. On the analyst side I run full-funnel analysis — traffic, conversion, retention, ROAS — and build KPI reports and business reviews for senior stakeholders across GCC/MENA markets, which is the UAE-and-Egypt, multi-market reporting this job needs. I design and document A/B tests, and I brief and manage 25–50 creators per campaign on short-form video (UGC, Reels, TikTok content), so I'm fluent in the creative-iteration loop that paid social lives on. Because my AI system does the manual heavy lifting, I can move at the pace this team runs at.

Two honest notes so we're clear-eyed. First, my paid-media strength is Meta (with Google); I have working TikTok content and creative experience rather than deep TikTok Ads Manager tenure, and I'd ramp that fast. Second, I understand attribution and measurement — last-touch versus incrementality, CAC, ROAS, CPM — but I haven't yet used an MMP like Adjust or AppsFlyer hands-on, so that's a tool I'd pick up quickly rather than one I'll overstate. My background is broader brand-and-commercial with hands-on paid media, more than a pure paid-social specialist track — but what I bring beyond the checklist is genuine AI-first working, real q-commerce fluency in this market, and strong analytical rigour, all of which map directly onto how this team wants to operate.

I'd be genuinely excited to go deep on performance marketing and AI at instashop's scale, and to prove it in CAC efficiency and full-funnel results — I can walk through paid-media, promotion and analytics case studies (from +30% GMV QoQ to AI automation that cut ~40% of manual work). I'm based in Dubai and ready to move fast. Thank you for your consideration — I look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez
