Dear Hiring Manager,

Launching a much-loved UK food brand in Dubai — building pre-launch hype, driving footfall from day one and making it impossible to ignore across the city — is exactly the kind of work I do every week, just for food brands already in my portfolio. The Social Media & Marketing Manager role caught my eye because it asks for the precise mix I bring: social-first content on Instagram and TikTok, an influencer and food-creator engine, launch campaigns and product drops, paid social, and promotions on Talabat, Deliveroo and Careem — all measured on ROI. I'm Dubai-based and live in the UAE F&B and social landscape today.

As Brand & Marketing Manager at DoFreeze, I run brand and social marketing for food brands (Befit, Eurocake, Flair). I own Instagram and TikTok content end-to-end, and I built the influencer and food-creator programme from zero — briefing, negotiating and managing 25–50 creators per campaign plus sampling and seeding to turn social buzz into orders. Crucially for this launch, I run promotions and campaign mechanics directly on Talabat, Deliveroo, Careem and Noon — the exact quick-commerce apps a Dubai food launch lives or dies on — and I lead product launches and drops end-to-end. My paid social sits on Meta and Google, always tracked on ROI/ROAS across orders and revenue, and earlier I owned 42 key accounts at Alibaba's Miravia with +30% GMV QoQ, so the commercial and budget side is second nature.

I'm a genuinely hands-on marketer, not someone who only briefs agencies: I plan and produce social content myself, direct creators and shoot short-form for the feed, and I've built an AI-powered content and campaign engine (Claude/GPT) that lets me ship more, faster. My food credentials run deep — food FMCG at DoFreeze and Mondelez, and restaurant accounts (KFC, Taco Bell, La Tagliatella, Sushi Shop) on Glovo's food-delivery platform — so I understand both the brand-building and the delivery-app growth this role needs. I'm already in Dubai on a UAE residence visa, so I can start immediately and hit the pre-launch runway without any relocation timeline.

I'd love to help take one of the UK's most exciting food brands from launch-day hype to a permanent fixture in Dubai's F&B scene. I'm available to start immediately and would welcome the chance to walk through how I'd approach the pre-launch social plan, the creator roster and the Talabat/Deliveroo/Careem promo calendar. Thank you for your consideration — I look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez
