Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to apply for the Digital Marketing Specialist role in your Dubai team. I have spent the last year on the other side of your platform — running brand campaigns for Befit, Eurocake and Flair on Deliveroo, Talabat, Noon and Careem — so I know how a promotion actually performs in this market, not just how it looks in a media plan. With the DoorDash and Wolt integration, the Brand & Experience team is about to run at a scale that makes that ground-level understanding of UAE customers more useful, not less.

Day to day I plan, schedule and optimise full-funnel campaigns across Meta, Google and YouTube, TikTok and Snapchat, building audiences, running creative A/B tests and reallocating budget weekly on ROI and ROAS. I own the post-campaign analysis too: at Miravia (Alibaba Group) I tracked ROI, conversion, traffic and retention across 42 accounts and turned that into promotional calendars and campaign activations that grew GMV +30% QoQ, reporting results directly to the CEO. At Glovo I built bespoke in-app and social activations for KFC, Taco Bell and Sushi Shop — so I have already worked inside the same three-sided marketplace dynamic that Deliveroo operates.

Two things I would bring beyond the brief. First, I brief and review copy and creative daily — I lead a designer and a social media executive — so I can hold brand consistency across channels rather than just trafficking assets. Second, I built our influencer programme from zero to 25–50 creators per campaign, generating UGC at a cost per asset no production budget matches. I should also be straightforward: my current title is Manager, and I am applying to a specialist role deliberately. I would rather go deeper on digital and media inside a business operating at Deliveroo's scale than stay broad at a smaller one. I speak Spanish and English (C1); I do not speak Arabic, though I work with UAE audiences and local publishers every week.

I am based in Dubai and available to start with one month's notice. I would welcome the chance to walk you through the campaign work I have run on quick-commerce platforms here and where I would take it at Deliveroo. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Best regards,

Paula De Francisco Pérez
